

Sizzling sounds

Check out the offers on digital music players and speakers

More than just music

THE Ranger Portabin Plus (from $499) is a 5-in-1 device that not only plays MP3 tunes, but also supports playback of video formats that include MPEG 4, DivX and QuickTime, displayed on its two-inch colour LCD screen.

A multi-format card reader allows for direct transfers of digital images from major memory cards like the Secure Digital, Compact Flash and Memory Stick formats.

The Portabin Plus comes in hard drive capacities of 40GB, 60GB and 80GB – enough for several hours of movies.

Ranger:
Booth 7015

Music Astone's throw away

AUSTRALIAN company Astone will be featuring products like the Versa 200 Travel Speakers that weigh only 290g. The speakers work with MP3 players or notebook computers.

Rock with Astone's flash memory players like the Rumba 2000 and Samba 1000. These players can handle MP3 and WMA tunes, and come with FM radio and voice recording functions.

There's also the Astone Xinc range of music and video players that can run MPEG 4 and DivX movies displayed on a 1.2-inch DSD screen, in addition to playing MP3 tunes.

Prices for Astone products were not available at press time.

Astone:
Booth 7041A

